

ARCHE Consulting - Regulatory Human Toxicologist - endocrine expert

Job description

You will be part of an expert team dealing with several chemical legislations (REACH, Biocides, Plant Protection Products etc.). As a Regulatory Human Toxicologist you will be responsible for:

- Monitoring, analysing and summarising toxicological data in view of regulatory submissions in the EU.
- Providing specialist scientific advice and assisting in dossier preparation for several chemical legislations in the EU, including the additional requirements imposed by the EU in different legislations concerning endocrine disruptor (ED) assessment of substances.
- Liaising with regulatory authorities.
- Staying updated on developments and changes in EU toxicology and regulatory requirements.
- Communicating with clients and regulatory authorities if necessary.

Your Profile:

Minimum qualifications for this position include:

- Masters degree or PhD in industrial hygiene, toxicology, pharmacology, biology, biomedical sciences or related fields
- Ability to evaluate scientific literature and interpret toxicological data
- A track record of monitoring toxicological studies is considered a plus.
- Acquaintance with the regulatory framework for human health hazard and risk assessments in the EU. Experience with one of the following registration procedures is a plus: Biocidal Products Regulation, Plant Protection Products Regulation, REACH/CLP.
- Expertise related to endocrine-disrupting properties is considered a plus.

- Strong technical and data evaluation skills
- Outstanding oral and written communication skills
- Fluent in English. A good command of Dutch or other European languages is a plus.

What do we offer:

- A challenging role in a growing company where you can apply and further develop skills.
- A participative company culture, where you can take initiative, share your ideas and where your opinion counts.
- A nice bunch of colleagues, always ready to help you and in for some fun. You'll be able to get to know them even better during activities such as our monthly breakfast, weekly sport, yearly teambuilding activities and kids day.
- Flexibility in the organization of your work (e.g. partial working from home), with eye for a healthy work/life balance, as long as the work gets done.
- A competitive salary package, including extralegal benefits (group insurance, bonus system, health insurance) and a flexible reward plan, allowing you to select a number of benefits according to your needs and interests.
- An attractive holiday system (20 + 12 days).
- A professional environment which supports you in your personal development & growth, by means of internal/external trainings, coaching, etc.
- An international dimension in your work.

<https://www.arche-consulting.be/>